

CORPORATIONS WILL PAY FOR CERTIFICATES OF TITLE

Clauses Which Intend to Charge the C. P. R. and Hudson's Bay for Part of the Cost of Registry Offices--
Night Sessions Commenced Yesterday

Evening sessions of the Legislature commenced yesterday evening, the Government evidently intending to rush the work along as rapidly as possible. Bills are going through at a very rapid rate but there is an enormous pile of legislation facing the Government, and even with night sittings it looks as if the present stage like a long session. The "Act Respecting the Real Property in the Province of Alberta" which is the most important act to be taken up yet, was considered in committee to-day. It is the act by which the Alberta Government takes over the land title business from the Dominion.

The act has few amendments, but what they are very important. In bringing the bill in, Attorney General Cross said that the bill was a continuation of the land act which has been in force in the Territories since 1894, with very few changes. Some of these changes, he said, he considered very important. The first in importance was the change made in connection with the filling of caveats. The object was to provide for the filling of agreements of sale, under the caveat system. Heretofore it has been impossible to register an agreement of sale, no matter what the purchaser's equity in the parcel of land purchased. One of the principal advantages of the clauses which the law contained was that parties who had purchased land from the Hudson Bay or the C. P. R. or similar pur. could go to the registry office and file a registration of their purchase under agreement, instead of having to need to register it at Winnipeg, as provided for by those companies at the present time.

The second change of importance, he said, provided for the impounding of titles. At the present time, when a man mortgages his property, the mortgagee almost invariably takes possession of the title, and when the owner wants to transfer or to further encumber the property he has to go to the mortgagee and get the certificate of title from him in order to take it to the registry office. In a great many cases these titles are in the hands of loan companies having offices in Toronto or Montreal, or in some cases farther away, and many of the companies do not send the certificates to the registrar without the payment of a fee or charge, which they make themselves. The act now provides that the property which bears an incumbrance shall be impounded by the registrar and kept at the registry office so that the party in whose name it is drawn may go to the registry office and make further record in connection therewith at any time.

The law also contemplates the keeping up of the assurance fund, and the division of the Alberta from the Saskatchewan portion of the fund, which is now in the hands of the Dominion Government.

Another change should work to the benefit of settlers under the present act, as it has stood in the Territories when a homesteader, whose claim has been recommended for patent, but who has not yet received his patent, desires to mortgage his claim, he has to pay a charge of $5 for each registration in connection therewith. There is a clause in the law now before the House which proposes to make the fee the same as though the patent had been issued.

One of the changes which the new law proposes and which was most enthusiastically received by the members of the House is apparently aimed at the holding land except such as would cover the intention of making them pay a part of the cost of running the record offices of the country. Heretofore the Dominion Government has been the habit of leasing patents to these companies, who then went with them to the registry offices and secured their certificates of title free of charge. Sub-section 2 of section 26 provides that any person who is not a homesteader, pre-emptor, the holder of half breed scrip, or any of the other systems of holding land except such as would cover the railway's case, shall be charged a fee for the certificate of title, which fee shall be fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council.

Another very important clause in the bill, the attorney general explained, provided that transfers might be made and recorded through the registry office in the case of land held under agreement from the C. P. R. or the Hudson Bay had to have his transfers recorded in the office of the company in Winnipeg, at an expense of anywhere from $10 to $15 for each transfer.

Mr. Rosenroth asked if there was any provision made in the bill for a system of foreclosure in cases where property was purchased under agreement of sale and the party doing the purchasing had failed in his contract. Mr. Rosenroth explained that in a great many cases land was sold under agreement on a very small payment down and in some of these cases the purchasers never went past the payment. In such cases the cost of foreclosure proceedings were out of all proportion to the amount realized on the sale of the property, and he thought that there should be some simple method under which it would be possible to close such a delinquent out, such as taking the fact of the sale to the land registrar to the facts of the case.

Mr. Cross stated in reply that the system of filing caveats had been made

TRAFFIC IS SUSPENDED ON THE CANADIAN NORTHERN

Span of Fort Bridge Goes Out and May Take a Month to Get in New Work

The ice jam at Fort Saskatchewan yesterday morning, which tore out some of the old bridge at the eastern approach, has tied up traffic on the C. N. R. and cut off Edmonton from railway communication from the east for a period variously estimated at from 10 days to a month. When the C. N. R. was built into the city last year a crossing was made at Fort Saskatchewan on a temporary structure which, it was recognized, would not stand an ice jam that must inevitably come in the spring. A handsome steel bridge, the second largest on the C. N. R., is being put in to replace the temporary bridge.

During the past winter contractors on the Fort bridge have been in a race against time to get the steel bridge built before the river broke up this spring. When the ice commenced to move, a little over a week ago, they had the middle span, and the span on the west side, which were considered the most dangerous, completed, and trains have been running over them for several days. On the east side, however, between the last pier and the river bank, there was a piece of false work which had not been replaced. When the ice commenced to jam yesterday morning it piled up in the middle and crowded the current over a new channel on the Fort Saskatchewan side. The piling stood for a little while, but soon commenced to move and before last night most of that section of the bridge was out of position altogether, and the ties and rails were hanging across from bank to pier like a suspension bridge. This morning a gang of about 50 men are working with all their energy to get the false work back into position so that traffic can be resumed pending the completion of the steel span which is to take the place of the frail piece that has gone out.

In the meantime, it is altogether likely that passenger traffic will be resumed almost immediately, as transfer by ferry can be arranged for by the C. N. R., but the freight business is paralyzed until the bridge is repaired or the new span put in.

As simple as possible. The changes that have been made are more in connection with the registration than with the equity in the property. The matter spoken of by Mr. Rosenroth, he thought should be covered by another act.

John T. Moore said that he was more than pleased with the changes and amendments which the Government proposed to make in the land law. The act as it stood was, he said, one of the best land laws in the world, but the amendments outlined by the attorney general would have the effect of making it all better than it was heretofore. He wanted to take this occasion, right in the commencement of expressing his strong approbation of the changes.

Mr. Stuart, of Glenora, asked the attorney-general, although he did not expect the answer at once, whether there was in the assurance fund in the hands of the Dominion Government and what were the total amount of claims against the fund.

Mr. Cross said he would have the information at a later date. The bill was taken up clause by clause in the committee of the whole. Clause 8 was the first one to attract attention. It provides that hereafter no person who is not a lawyer of three years standing shall be appointed a registrar, and no one who has not admitted to the bar in some province shall be appointed a sub-registrar. Those who are already holding titles upon the payment of fees, which says that they shall hold office during the pleasure of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council. The clause was accepted by Section 14, which provides that all registry offices shall be kept open from 10 until 4 o'clock, was the occasion of considerable debate. Attorney-general Cross said that he would like the opinion of the House on the question of what hours the registry offices should be kept open. Mr. Rosenroth said he would like to hear from the attorney-general as to how they were getting along with their work at the present time, with the present hours. The attorney-general said that as the Government had not taken the offices over yet they were in no position to say what the registry office employees were doing at the present time.

Mr. McKay suggested that 9 to 5 were the proper hours. Mr. Cross said that it might be found to work better if the hours were made 9 to 5, with the doors open 10 to 4, as the employees of the registry office, it is well known, had to work overtime at the present time.

Mr. Hiebert suggested that they adopt the regular banking hours, as it was well known that the clerks had to work after the doors were closed anyway. Mr. Walker was inclined to agree with the member for Pincher Creek. He kept the office open until 5 o'clock on the grounds that the present short hours frequently worked a hardship on people who lived out of town and could not well accommodate themselves to the short hours.

The member for Glenora, Mr. Stuart, said that his experience had been that whatever delays there were in the registry office were caused by congestion of work. It was not because the hours during which the doors were open were too short, as these hours were merely the receiving hours; it was on account of inability to handle the work that was brought in during these open hours.

Mr. Robertson asked why the government should not, if this was the case, employ more help in the registry office and permit of the work being done on time. He knew of one case where it took a year to get a patent. John T. Moore said that he had had 15 years' experience as a deputy registrar, and he therefore spoke with some degree of knowledge. It was his idea of the case that 10 to 4 was plenty of time for "receiving" the work, but the important clerical labor of the registry office came after the doors were closed. It depends, he said, to a large extent, on the administration of the individual office as to how well that work will be done. From 10 to 4 did not represent by any means the hours which the employees had to work. To lengthen these hours would only have the effect of hampering or retarding the work of the office rather than expediting it.

The clause was held over for future consideration.

Sub-section 2 of Section 26 is the clause which provides for the fee that is to be charged the C. P. R. and the Hudson Bay for the use of the office of certificates of title. It reads as follows:

(2) Where a person has obtained a patent under a homestead or under a homestead and pre-emption entry or under half-breed land scrip or military bounty land scrip in accordance with the Act of Parliament of Canada known as the Dominion Lands Act, and amendments thereto, a duplicate of such certificate of title shall be issued to such party free of all fees and charges by this Act provided to be paid, and in the case of other patentees such duplicate certificate of title shall be issued upon the payment of such fees as are fixed or may from time to time be fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council.

In speaking of the matter Attorney-General Cross said that the Government would undoubtedly put the fees high enough to make these corporations pay their fair share of the cost of running the registry offices. One of the main causes of the delays he thought, which have been complained of in connection with the registry offices, was due to the fact that the employees have been loaded up with railway land transfers and have been neglecting the transfers which were in the interests of private parties. He said that he thought that most of the registry office employees had an idea that some such law as this was going to be placed on the statutes and he did not think that they were working quite so hard as they had been doing to get these railway deals out, but were paying a little more attention to private title.

Mr. McKenzie, of Macleod, said that he did not think that certificates of title should be for more than $40 a piece. He said that in the case of a homestead or pre-emption entry, there was no room, he said for more than three or four memoranda on any certificate of title, and there was no reason why the payment of money should be permitted to take out single titles, or certificates to all the land they might happen to own in one township, as the C. P. R. has been in the habit of doing. If the C. P. R. were allowed to continue this practice it would have the effect of defeating the very purpose of section 26.

The attorney-general said that he had looked into the matter and he thought that some such provision should be made. It might be possible to reduce the amount of land to be covered by one certificate to 320 acres. The clause was left over in order that the members who raised the question should be permitted to take out single titles, or certificates to all the land they might happen to own in one township, as the C. P. R. has been in the habit of doing. If the C. P. R. were allowed to continue this practice it would have the effect of defeating the very purpose of section 26.

The House was considering section 27 when the adjournment arrived and the premier announced that it was desirable that they should meet at 8 o'clock in the evening for the further consideration of the bill.

Section 28 was the cause of considerable debate in the evening session. It is the clause which provides for the sub-dividing into town lots of land acquired in the ordinary way.

Mr. Rosenroth said that there was nothing in the act which provided for any definite plan whereby a townsite should be laid out. He thought that there should be certain regulations that persons should be required to live up to when laying out a place of lots for any purpose, such as the provision for streets of a certain width and lanes, where there was no special reason why lanes should not be provided. The registrar, he thought, should be given powers to see that these conditions were carried out before accepting the plan provided for by the act. The attorney-general said that the

York Loan Affairs Being Wound Up as Quickly as Possible

Toronto, April 10. — The mysterious Miss Joan McCann, who is reported to hold 530 shares of Toronto Life Insurance stock, and whom some people believed to be a myth, is a real personage. She is a graduate nurse in attendance upon a patient in the Holland House, New York. So numerous are the inquiries from shareholders of the York Loan as to when they may reasonably expect to derive a dividend from the money they put into the company, that W. T. White, manager of the National Trust Co., and liquidator of the York Loan Co., was asked for a statement on the matter. "The shareholders and creditors," said Mr. White, "cannot possibly receive anything for a long time yet. The affairs of the York Loan Co. are being wound up as fast as possible, but the books are slow in coming in and until they are all in and the different claims are decided no payments can be made."

FATAL SHOOTING AFFRAY AT WETASKIWIN YESTERDAY

George Brock Shoots Young Man Seen in Company With His Wife--Arrest Follows Immediately

Wetaskiwin, Apr. 10.—(Special to the Bulletin)—A fatal gun play occurred here within a few feet of the main street, at 9 o'clock last night, as a result of which a young man by the name of Sharkey is dead and George Brock, a well known resident of the town is under arrest on a charge of murder. Jealousy is given as the cause of the tragedy.

The shooting occurred within the shadow of the Merchants Bank in a rather dark and secluded spot, but within only a few feet of the busiest part of the town, and at a time when the crack of the Smith & Wesson was heard by scores of people.

It seems that Brock, whether for reason or not, has been jealous of young Sharkey for some time. Last night it is said Sharkey went to Brock's home and getting Mrs. Brock and a niece and her husband, they were all on their way to the Salvation Army. Just as they were passing the bank building Brock stepped out with a 32 double-acting revolver in his hand and fired four shots in rapid succession. Sharkey fell and the other members of the party scattered in all directions. An alarm was immediately raised and Dr. Robertson called, but when he reached the scene he pronounced the young man's death instantaneous. Brock was arrested fifteen minutes later by Sergeant Phillips of the R.N.W.M.P. He offered no resistance and has since had little to say.

Not a great deal is known of the history of young Sharkey. He has been in Wetaskiwin for sometime, working around the city as a man of all-work. Brock it is said was considered light headed by many of his acquaintances. He has been trucking and dealing in horses about Wetaskiwin for some time. It is stated that he was once examined as to his sanity in Calgary, but was allowed to remain at large.

RUSSIAN LIBERALS WON EVERYTHING

First Election in the Czar's Domains a Demand for Reform

St. Petersburg, April 10.—Rhe electoral colleges of fifty-one provinces in European Russia elected 15 members to the national parliament, about one third of its membership and returns received up to midnight indicate that the wildest hopes of the Liberals have been realized. The constitutional Democrats and other Progressives practically everywhere have gained a tremendous victory over the Octobrists and other Conservative parties. As far as is ascertainable the revolutionary candidates failed throughout and nowhere did the Octobrists score a triumph. The majorities scored by the Radicals clinch the character of the victory. From the Volga to the frontier of Poland and from the rockbound coast of the Black Sea to the border of Finland the story is the same.

—The Juvenile Bostonians played to a good house last night, the comic opera entitled "A Gay Go", which was so well enjoyed last week. The singing of the young artists was especially enjoyed. Tonight they present "The Rajah of Puzalla", which drew a crowded house last Thursday.

Stories of Entombed Miners

The thirteen miners who were brought up alive from the Courtenay mine, near Lena, France, after being entombed for twenty days, tell thrilling stories of their experience.

At first there were twenty of them together after the explosion, but in wandering about they became separated, fifteen remained under the leadership of a man named Neny and five of the one group and two of the others disappeared, and it is not known what became of them. The two groups met again yesterday.

The survivors declare that there are others still in the mine alive. They say they heard their cries from beneath a fall of rock and were unable to remove the obstruction.

When the men were rescued they still had their pockets filled with cats. Prayed had some decayed horse flesh. The men are unable to say what pains they followed during their twenty days of gloomy wanderings. Every effort is now being made to rescue the others.

When Mme. Neny, the wife of one of the survivors, came to the bed where her husband was lying he looked at her for a long time and then, pointing at the black she was wearing, asked for whom she was mourning. The widow of one of the victims of the disaster named Castel, whose son Louis was one of the survivors, threw herself into her son's arms, crying, "Louis, where is your brother?" Louis understood looking around vaguely and shrugged his shoulders. His mother fell to the ground weeping and had to be removed.

Mme. Provost, seeing her husband and son, fainted with joy. It is a curious fact that although the survivors had plenty of matches, not one in fifty of them would strike.

When the survivors were brought up they looked like corpses. One of them set up a roar of lugubrious, horrifying laughter. Another complained of the cold. Several were shivering with cold when they were put to bed in the hospital. Twelve seemed ready to collapse. They stood around staring with eyes far sunk in the sockets. Neny chatted uneasily with Director Lavure, who begged him to stop. "Why," he said, "not at all. I don't mind very ill. I hope you will soon let me go home," adding laughing: "I have been quiet while I have been away." All the men have swollen black limbs. They are ghastly objects. Their faces all except Neny's bear marks of their intense sufferings.

Neny describes how, on the day of the explosion, he sought refuge in No. 3 cellar, hoping there to escape the gases. He was without a light, and often stumbled over corpses. He remembers once falling over a group of them. Finally he reached the end of the workings, and heard voices. He went in that direction, and met his fellows.

They thought at first he was the leader of a scouting party, and became alarmed. He was learning that he was himself a victim. He confronted them, saying: "There is hope still. Let us try to escape." They stayed eight days at that spot. "I hope you will soon let me go home," adding laughing: "I have been quiet while I have been away." All the men have swollen black limbs. They stayed eight days at that spot. "I hope you will soon let me go home," adding laughing: "I have been quiet while I have been away." All the men have swollen black limbs. They are ghastly objects. Their faces all except Neny's bear marks of their intense sufferings.

Neny describes how, on the day of the explosion, he sought refuge in No. 3 cellar, hoping there to escape the gases. He was without a light, and often stumbled over corpses. He remembers once falling over a group of them. Finally he reached the end of the workings, and heard voices. He went in that direction, and met his fellows.

They thought at first he was the leader of a scouting party, and became alarmed. He was learning that he was himself a victim. He confronted them, saying: "There is hope still. Let us try to escape." A VICTIM

Alexander Ross, arrested in Detroit for robbing his employer says his downward career began in a western land deal, when with a party of other men he bought a large tract of Saskatchewan land, turning over all their capital as first payment and trusting to sell again before the subsequent obligations came due. It is the old story of greed blinding reason and leading men to buy what they cannot pay for.

Tet Ross was not a slinner in kind or degree beyond hundreds of other men in every thriving district in the Canadian West today. Prosperity begets speculation and the prosperity of the Canadian west has induced thousands to trust to the future advance in land values and assume obligations which they cannot reasonably hope to meet without such advance. This is the point where investment ceases and gambling begins. The distinction of Ross' case is not that he gambled more than others, but that he was caught while they escaped.

So far there has been a steady increase in the price of Western lands which has enabled the gamblers to make good, sometimes with enormous profits from small investments. But it is well to remember that there is a limit and that even the fertile lands of the west will some day reach their normal value. When that time comes a thousand men who have staked their all on the continued increase will endorse the maxim of Marshall Field who claimed that he "Never bought what he could not pay for, and never sold what he did not have."

And the sooner the pinch comes the better for the individual and the country at large. Speculation is contagious and it is better that one should be caught today than two tomorrow. Meantime every dollar made in the sale of western lands adds a dollar to the handicap under which those lands will eventually be brought under cultivation. In the long run there must be "value for value" and the money which is won and lost in gambling on farming lands must eventually be returned to someone and by someone from the product of that land.

ONTARIO FRUIT PACKERS AND THE WESTERN TRADE

The Toronto Globe has won out in a libel suit entered against that paper by an Ontario fruit packer. The Globe published an Ottawa despatch based on a bulletin issued by the Government, saying that an inspector had found the packer guilty of putting an inferior grade of apples in a barrel supposed to contain first class fruit. From this originated the suit.

Commenting on the legal phase of the case the Globe says:—"The fact is the jury accepted Mr. Justice Clute's ruling that the Globe could not plead privilege in publishing a bulletin issued by the Government. That ruling we are advised is unquestionably correct. The law as it now stands offers no protection to a newspaper that in good faith and in the public interest publishes an official statement issued by the Government or by any Department of State, or by a board of health or any other responsible public body."

"The plea of privilege was entered by Mr. E. F. Johnston, K.C., counsel for the Globe for the explicit purpose of securing a judicial interpretation of the law as it now stands. The point, so far as was known had never been raised before. No precedent either in England or in Canada could be cited of a libel based on a Government bulletin. It was necessary to have a judicial decision in order to secure an amendment to the statute. It is now open to the Ontario Legislature to pass the necessary amendment, such an amendment should be passed in all the provinces, for the situation as it now stands is intolerable. All that is asked is that qualified privilege be granted the press in the publication of official bulletins, reports, and other statements with fair comment, when done without malice and in the public interest. Without such privilege, every important part of the Government would find itself seriously handicapped. In the meantime the press ought to be quite clear as to the law. Mr. Justice Clute's ruling stands. The law allows no privilege. The case was won, not because the jury went against the Globe's charge, but because the Globe proved the apples in question to be inferior in grade and quality and the packing to be a violation of the Fruit Marks Act. No newspaper should be under obligation to any man to justify a Government bulletin. But that obligation is imposed by the law as it now stands."

The case out of which the suit arose is an illustration of the means by which the fruit market in the west has been practically lost to the Ontario packer. The transportation charges on fruit from Ontario are such that the original cost of the fruit in Ontario is an item of comparatively small concern in the price paid by the western consumer. The result is that only first-class fruit will be bought by the western consumer. Had the Ontario packers dealt fairly with the western consumers they might have maintained supremacy in a market already large and certain to reach enormous proportions

In the very near future. But the Ontario packer did not deal fairly with the consumer and attempted to palm off third rate fruit at a first-class price. The result was the divergence of a large part of the western fruit trade to the Province of British Columbia and the States along the Pacific Coast. From the Cobourg incident it appears that the packers have not yet abandoned the policy of killing the goose which laid the golden eggs.

THE UNIVERSITY BILL

The University Bill now before the Provincial Legislature provides for the establishment of "A university consisting of a chancellor, vice-chancellor, senate and convocation . . . in the province as a body politic and corporate by such name as may hereafter be determined by the Legislative Assembly."

The first convocation shall consist of "All graduates of any university in His Majesty's Dominions having the degree of Bachelor or Master of Arts, Bachelor of Laws, Bachelor of Medicine, or of Civil Law, Bachelor or Doctor of Medicine, Bachelor or Doctor of Science, or of Bachelor, Licentiate or Doctor of Medicine, who are actually residing in the province three months prior to the first election of members of the senate of the university and who at least one month prior to the said election, register themselves as 'members of such convocation in the office of the Provincial Secretary.' Thereafter convocation shall consist of these members and of all graduates of the university."

The Senate of the university shall consist of the Minister of Education, the chancellor, five members appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council and ten members elected by convocation from its members.

The chancellor is to be elected by the convocation and the vice-chancellor by the members of the senate from among themselves.

"The university shall be strictly non-sectarian in principle and no religious dogma or creed shall be taught and no religious tests required of any student or other person." Another clause provides that "No religious test shall be required of any professor, teacher, lecturer or student or servant of the university nor shall religious observances according to the forms of any particular denomination or otherwise be imposed on them or any of them."

The Senate is given power to "Affiliate any incorporated college or college with the university on being satisfied that such college is in operation and possesses of the requisite buildings and a sufficient staff of professors and other teaching officers to 'affiliate.' It is also provided that 'Any college affiliated with the university under this Act may be removed from such affiliation by statute of the senate of the university.'"

The Senate is empowered to make special provision for the education of women by the following clause, "The senate shall make all provision for the education of women in the university in such manner as it shall deem most fitting, provided however that no woman by reason of her sex shall be deprived of any advantage or privilege accorded to male students of the university."

"The date of the first election shall be fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, of which not less than three months' notice shall be given in the Alberta Gazette and at least three weeks prior to such date the Provincial Secretary shall send a list of all the members of the first convocation to 'each member thereof.' While the bill provides the legislative basis for the institution, its actual establishment is thus left until such time as this shall be warranted and required.

GAMES ON GOOD FRIDAY

Good Friday will be the opening day of the season for the sporting organizations of the city. There will be something doing that promises entertainment for the whole afternoon. The Edmonton Cricket Club will open the season with a game between the married and single members of the club, and all who are fond of the English game should be on hand. The management of the Edmonton Baseball Club are making arrangements to have an outside nine come to the city and help them to start off the season with a rousing exhibition of the international game. Welskivich, which has been famous as the home of baseball fans, and who last year had a team that could stand up to almost anything, will probably have a team on hand on Good Friday afternoon. Then the lacrosse boys have accepted a challenge from the Strathcona dozen, and will travel across the river with their sticks and go to it on the exhibition grounds. This will be really interesting and will probably attract a number of Edmonton rovers. The football team will probably go to the Port, where a team has already been organized, and which is longing to get out into the field. The golf links will also very probably prove an attraction on Friday, and the rifle ranges, which were opened a week ago, will, if the weather permits, be the source of some amusement for the gentlemen.

Fertile Farm Lands Near
Alberta's Capital

Leduc, 20 miles south of Edmonton, on the C. & N. Railway is noted for its rich agricultural lands, and large production of wheat and oats, of first-class quality. Cattle-raising and dairying are also important industries. The land is partly wooded, and there are large coal deposits in the district. There are numerous lakes, one being partly within the town limits. Fish and game are plentiful.

Homestead lands may be obtained at a distance of 20 miles from town. Other lands range from $6 to $40 an acre. The town itself numbers upwards of 400 inhabitants, principally Canadians and Americans, and is now applying for incorporation. Among the business establishments are a chartered bank, 3 grain elevators, 2 grain warehouses, creamery, pork-packing house, flour mill, planing mill, general stores, hardware stores, also hotels, and 5 churches. Telegraph and telephone systems.

THE MAIN THING IN DRESS

Simplicity of Color is the Prevailing
Note in Men's Wear

Art in personal attire is as necessary to the harmony and culture of life as is the study of cultivation of the paintings by the Old Masters. Grant this axiom, and a semi-ready suit should be permitted to pass the customs free as a real work of art.

The main thing in artistic personal attire is simplicity; and in the matter of color in dress it cannot be made too emphatic. Not much color--not many colors. The individual is in the unit and must be studied first. Civilization does not use the bald, bright color because it indicates crudeness, and not refinement. The Indian loves bright colors. Crudeness means loudness.

The elemental principles are learned by the average tailor, but the Semi-ready system was founded on a study of the individual unit in every form and type of physical manhood. The price and fit are guaranteed by the Semi-ready label on the garment.

Kelly & Moore of Edmonton, who have the Semi-ready wardrobe here, say that gentlemen will be delighted with the chance to get better than custom-tailored garments at less than back-street prices. A $15 Semi-ready suit is made of better material and of finer workmanship than the ordinary $30 suits.

EDMONTON'S ICE HARVEST

The ice has nearly all disappeared from the Saskatchewan, from the power house to Fraser's mill. The river has the past winter yielded a bountiful ice harvest. The amount of ice taken out for summer use has exceeded greatly the amount taken out last winter. Last year several ice cutters were at work. This winter Robert Simpson, the ice-cutter, who lives down on the bank of the river, and who has large ice houses for storage purposes, has supplied the demand for both Strathcona and Edmonton, and has been the sole ice-cutter on the river. He has, however, taken out more ice this winter than all the cutters did last year. In total numbers Mr. Simpson cut during the winter 8,000 tons of ice. Of this amount he has stored in his warehouses for private customers some 2,000 tons. The demand by the C.N.R. has been greatest. They took from Mr. Simpson a little over 1,000 tons, about half of which they shipped to Battleford, Humboldt, and Vermilion, the other half being stored in the railway ice house. Strathcona firms were supplied with 2,000 tons and the remainder 4,000 tons were taken by Edmonton firms. The ice has been of first class quality and averaged in thickness from 16 to 33 inches.

sian maple, and white ash. The trees fixtures which have not yet arrived, but style.

—There was a bad wreck in the railroad yards at Lethbridge last week. A C. P. R. engine was shunting some cars toward the station, while an A. R.
& L. engine was putting several cars on the side track. Just as the A. R.
& L. bunch was coming to the switch,
the caboose of the other train bumped into two loaded freight cars and threw them off the track, the cars toppling over on their sides. The caboose was also derailed and badly damaged, the trucks being put out of business. The other cars were not so badly wrecked. It took several hours to clear the tracks
and get the cars in position again.
Walter McKay had a narrow escape from being hurt, as he was between the cars when the smash occurred. D. A.
Smith, of the A. Macdonald Co., informed the Herald that one of the cars contained household furniture he had shipped from Cowley last Thursday.
He cannot understand why it did not reach here in two days at least. Nearly a week to bring a car eighty miles
seems to be a slow transportation.—Lethbridge Herald.

FAT VS. LEAN

The football season of 1906 is to be opened with a grand exhibition of the game between the lightweights and the heavy weights of the city. Several of the one-time sports who have grown stout over neglect of the game or have remained slim owing to strenuous business life, but who, nevertheless have not forgotten the good old times on the football field, have suggested that this would be the only real and proper manner in which to give the football season a good opening. The minimum weight of the members of the heavy weight team is to be 225 pounds, and the maximum light weight is to be 150 pounds. All players are to be 30 years of age or over. Professionals are barred from the game and no practice is allowed. A collection will be taken up at the grounds for the benefit of the hospitals. A date has not yet been decided upon, but it is likely that the game will be pulled off on Good Friday afternoon or evening.

NAVIES AS BUMBALIFFS

(Toronto Star.)

One of the subjects to be brought up at the Pan-American Congress is the Drago doctrine, so called from its author an Argentine publicist. The doctrine is that debts due from one nation to the private citizens of another are not to be collected by armed force.
Some of the South American republics,
being notorious for incurring debts that they cannot or will not pay, have a strong interest in the adoption of the doctrine. But, whatever their motive may be, the principle is sound, and is as much in the interest of the nation whose citizens are creditors as of the debtor nation.

The fleets and armies of a nation are supported for the purpose of defending its rights, and it is a misappropriation of the taxpayers' money to turn either fleet or army into a debt-collecting agency. Not only is the public money misused, but the whole nation may be dragged into war, its largeness imperilled and the lives of thousands of its citizens lost, because a few creditors have made a bad investment.

It should be understood that people who invest their money in places beyond the reach of their own courts do so at their own risk. They should make careful enquiries as to the solvency and honesty of the debtor and the nature of the redress afforded by the courts of the foreign country. If these are not satisfactory, they are at perfect liberty to keep their money in their pockets, or invest it at home. In this way a dishonest or extravagant country will be punished, as it ought to be, by loss of credit.

The present system entails three evils on the country that undertakes the business of collection. It withdraws money from home investments. It bolsters up insolvent countries and encourages them in extravagance. It throws good money, in the form of powder and shot, after bad money; and it involves both nations in the horrors of war, a calamity that ought to be endured only when national rights are at stake.
